BODY OF BENNETT PASSES THROUGH HERE ON TRAIN

Special Carrying Corps of Famous Aviator Enroute
To Washington

TO BE BURIED TODAY

Full Military Honors Will Be Given Aviator A:
Capital

The funeral train of seven cars bearing the body of Floyd Bennett, passed through Bristol at 11:50 this morning enroute from New York to Washington. The body of the distinguished aviator was in the baggage car which was between two Pullmans on the rear of the train.

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 27.—On an army caisson draped with the Stars and Stripes, the body of Floyd Bennett was borne through the streets here today from the Grand Central depot to the Seventy-First Regiment Armory. There, for one hour, the people of his home town—men, women and children—filed slowly past the flag-draped bier, paying a last sad tribute to the memory of the famous navy aviator.

The body, enroute from Quebec, where Bennett died on Wednesday from pneumonia, for Washington, D. C., arrived at 7:30 o'clock this morning. Burial, with high military and naval honors, is to take place this afternoon at the Arlington National Cemetery where so many of the nation's heroes have been laid to rest.

And while the funeral procession was being halted for New York City's homage, the three men for whom Bennett died—Fitzmaurice, Koehl and Von Huene—were whirling overhead for Washington to attend the funeral. They hopped off from Lake St. Agnes, Quebec, at 7:10 o'clock this morning. The body arrived on a special car. Aboard the train was the grief-stricken widow, Mrs. Cora Bennett, and the dead flyer's bosom friend, Commander Richard E. Byrd. It was with Byrd that Bennett achieved his greatest fame—a flight to the North Pole.

Thousands of people crowded into the Grand Central and lined the streets from the depot to the Armory. It was a silent, reverent throng, and the authorities experienced no difficulty maintaining order. Squads of mounted police patrolled the streets, and five hundred uniformed policemen were on duty in the railroad station.

The funeral procession moved slowly from the depot to the armory, on each side of the army caisson which bore the body marched eight armed soldiers and eight armed sailors in uniforms. They were followed by one full company of the Seventy-First Regiment, National Guard, a company of the Sixteenth Infantry and about fifty uniformed sailors from the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Representing the city of New York was Grover Whalen, head of the Mayor's reception committee to distinguished guests.

Mrs. Bennett and Byrd left immediately for the Biltmore Hotel where they were to remain until after the public paid its respects at the armory. At 9 o'clock, the doors of the armory were barred to the public and the room in which the coffin lay was reserved for a private service attended by the aviator's relatives and close friends.

Park Avenue was black with people as the funeral procession slowly wended its way to the Armory. The spectators were twenty deep back of the curbstones, and hundreds viewed the procession from windows of the buildings along the route. The mournful music of the Sixteenth Infantry Band accentuated the sadness of the occasion.

Four seaplanes from the Rockaway Point naval air station dropped floral tributes over the procession. Plans which would have greeted Bennett if he had lived to pilot the Bremen flyers back from Greenly Island were at half mast throughout the city.

A few minutes after eight o'clock the cortege arrived at the armory. The body was taken to the private room of Colonel Walter Allen De Lamater, commanding officer of the Seventy-First Regiment, National Guard. The coffin was decorated with flowers from many friends, a particularly large bouquet having been sent by the mayor's committee. Then the public was admitted.

ELKS' MINSTREL SHOW GOES OVER VERY BIG

'Circle' and 'End Men' Make Big Hit With The Audience

SOLOS AND MUSIC GOOD

The social room of the Elks' Home was packed to the doors when the curtain was raised for the minstrel show given by the Elks' Tennis Club last night.

The stage was decorated with beautiful flowers in lattice framework which gave a good background for the "circle," the members of which were dressed in tuxedo suits.

From the beginning there was not a dull moment—each and every member was full of pep and the songs went over big.

John Brehm in his usual pleasing manner as interlocutor, introduced the soloists, and the "end men," Rathke and Phipps, who need no introduction in Bristol. Their appearance caused roars of laughter and rounds of applause. Each represented a fireman, and were antiquated fire hats and red flannel shirts.

The jokes were all on the members of the Elks.

It would be impossible to give particular credit to any one who rendered the solos when Charles Hellyer, Percy G. Ford, Andrew McArthur, John Brehm, Malcolm W. Orr, John Lynn, Dr. Walter Smith, Samuel Pearson and Chauncey Stoneback, Jr., made up the circle.

After the closing chorus violin selections were rendered by Lester D. Thorne and Joseph Lanza.

Miss Grace Shaver sang "Mandala," Mrs. M. D. Weagley accompanying at the piano.

Rathke and Brooks then brought down the house with their "magic and comedy."

An act that was not on the programme was then announced and an "old-timer" and old friend of the public, "Tullytown Bill," appeared, which was the cause of round after round of applause.

Miss Gertrude Johnson, who gave a novelty sketch was very well received. Her monologues were good and given in her own inimitable manner.

The American Legion orchestra, with Evan Vandegrift conductor, rendered the music for the show.

The members of the tennis club wish to thank all those who took any part in the minstrel to help make it a success, also the public which showed its appreciation of the club's efforts to put on a good show.

direction of Miss Helfrich, a member of Bensalem high faculty.

With hopes of appearing before the public very soon, the members of the Bensalem Township high school orchestra have already been measured for uniforms, and now await their receipt.

Under the direction of Professor Valeno regular practices are being carried on, and all show a keen interest. With the loss of a base-horn player, it was found necessary to secure a pianist, and Miss Elizabeth Dyer has been chosen.

A number of students at the Bensalem high school have had their names placed on the honor rolls. This list includes: Freshmen—Liesolotte Foerster, John Pearce; sophomores—Grace Barth, Jerile Edjys, Josephine Kotroba; Juniors—May Early, Florence Gerhart, Dorothy Lippincott and Kathryn Wurst.

Those who have been perfect in attendance are: Henry Bowman, Edward Hanson, Axel Kleinsorg, George Luciana, Francis Williams, James Mortimer, William Shibo, Mildred Colville, Mae Haldeman, Margaret Mace, Emilie Wildman, Grace Barth, May Early, Florence Gerhart.

REFORESTATION PROGRESS

The idea of American Forest Week, which is being observed this week, is to keep in the foreground of public interest a great movement, both national and local, to perpetuate a vital natural resource.

There is an incalculable benefit in winning popular encouragement for rehabilitation and sound forestry, a work now so hopefully begun, but needing the strong support of the collective will and intelligence of the nation.

Every person cannot go out and plant trees. The appeal, in forest week, for direct action is to land-owners, perhaps most emphatically to large private holders. They are not asked to cease cutting their timber, but only to plant a new tree for every one that falls from the woodsman's axe. Many lumbermen still cut over their acres with no provision for replacement, other than that afforded by nature. But there is also a hopeful trend in this field to develop timber growing as a permanent land usage. The tendency among forest industries and timberland owners toward permanent retention of title for the purpose of timber production is regarded as distinctly favorable. Unstable forest land ownership is considered one of the greatest single obstacles to the rapid spread of timber growing.

None of the abundant literature on forest conservation and reforestation is pessimistic. Even the American Forest Week campaign of education and stimulation is having an appreciable effect. But that does not mean the goal has been won. Of the 460,000,000 acres in the United States which foresters classify as forest land, 80,000,000 acres are unproductive unless planted artificially. And carelessness is behind nine out of ten of the forest fires which annually destroy timber worth $20,000,000.

BOOSTERS GO IN FOR YELLS

Life will not be more peaceful when a booster for a seashore resort has had his reckless way with it. He is about to offer a prize for the "best yell or municipal cry to musical accompaniment."

The scream of an outraged visitor who considers that he has been overcharged at his hotel would be one way of arriving at this curious addition to local customs, but presumably in most cases that would be neither loud nor long enough to satisfy the author of the idea.

But it may be taken as certain that if one watering place discovers a satisfactory yell, and it proves—to some people—an attraction, other cities and resorts will not be long in adding to the clamor. And then the United States will ring from one end to the other with the Raleigh Roar, the Baltimore Bleat, the Seattle Screech, the Hollywood Hoot, the Atlantic City Cry, the Easton Echo, the Miami Moan, the Philadelphia Fury, the Bristol Bawl and many others from the Albany Agony down to the Zion Zeal.

There are some "boosters" that do not boost. The "community cry" is one of them. It is not unlikely that vacationists seeking peace and quiet will pass by even the winner of the national municipal yell contest and betake themselves to the Sahara Silence.

Ancient saying: "We can't afford it."

Humility is a virtue in a lion, not in a rabbit.

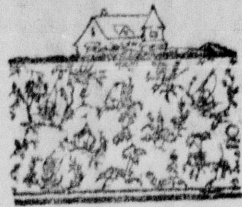

You can't keep a good secret down.

Beautiful WICKER FURNITURE

The time has come in the manufacture of wicker furniture when it is very much a fine art. You can remember the day when the wicker splintered, and the life of such pieces was not long, but nowadays the manufacturer produces furniture which is not only serviceable, but is beautiful beyond words.

Great, easy, comfortable porch chairs for the sun parlor, settees, magazine racks, lamp stands, bird cages, all in wicker, which, if you wish a year or so later, you can do over again in charming enamel or lacquer colors.

Clean Up and Paint Up

Flowers Are Colorful "Thoughts"

The importance of flowers, inside and outside the home, must not be underestimated. They speak a language of their own—a language of cheerfulness, of hope and sunshine. They brighten our thoughts as well as our yards and rooms.

And when winter comes, there should be window boxes filled to overflowing with such posies as will flourish indoors. It is a good thing to inculcate love of flowers in your children. If your home is not blessed with flowers, by all means "get the habit." Our advice is at your disposal.

What your CARPENTER Says—

"A handy man about a home, during the Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up campaign can do many odd jobs adequately. Then again, there are tasks which require the knowledge of a professional. For example, what about that leaky roof on your house? Old shingles, rotted? Why not have it replaced with a modern roof in the new stained shingle manner? Perhaps you have felt the need of an enclosed porch. Oh would a new back fence and rose trellises improve your grounds? We are ready to serve you."

Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up

Says your DRUGGIST

"I can be of material help to you in carrying out all the work connected with this Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign. You will want insecticides. You will need disinfectants. A modern drug store carries many, many things which enter into the spirit of this splendid crusade. And, being ourselves in sympathy with the civic-pride movement, we are only too willing to assist you in any way that lies within our power."
